

World War 1 and Members of St Edmund Hall – a Roll of Service and the War Memorial Panel.

It seems fitting in this particular year of reflection and remembrance to record for current readers of this Magazine published in 2014 some information on the Members of the Hall recorded in the Roll of Service and some background to the War Memorial in the Hall Chapel.

Volume 1, Number 2 of the St Edmund Hall Magazine was published in December 1921. It covered the period 1920-21 and records the placing in the Ante-Chapel of “two panels, commemorating the members of the Hall who laid down their lives in the war”. The article describes the panels as being designed by Mr Harold Rogers to fit in with the original panelling and executed in English oak. The names of those commemorated are inscribed on the upper panel in the order of the respective years in which the deaths occurred.

On St Edmund’s day, November 16th, at 3.00pm in the afternoon a special service was held in the Chapel and the previous Principal, the Bishop of Carlisle, dedicated the panels. The article in the Magazine records that, “the Bishop gave an address in the course of which he said:

“The occasion requires few words. It is not possible to compute in any way either the loss or suffering which the war has entailed, nor is it possible to estimate correctly the magnificence of the achievements of those soldiers whom we are commemorating. What they did must be left to be written large in the history of the world. If a man looks into his own heart and reads there what has been learnt since the Armistice, he will know how much he and the nation have still to learn. We are here out of simple motives of love and reverence to do honour to the men for whom all who knew them had such great affection; and you have a right to expect that I who knew and loved so many of them should try to describe what manner of men they were.”

Later in the article the Bishop, speaking as the late Principal, asked the members present to “perpetuate the high traditions of this place which all who belong to it love dearly. It is like no other society in the University.”

The Oxford University Roll of Service was published at around the same time as the commemoration of the St Edmund Hall War Memorial. It is now available on the Web and contains “the names, fourteen thousand five hundred and sixty-one in number, of those members of the University who served in the Military and Naval forces of the Crown during the War.” Below we reprint from that Roll of Service the names of all Members of the Hall contained therein.
